SHOOTING OF JEWISH CURFEW VIOLATOR IS LATEST OF DEATHS

EX-SERVICEMAN, YOUNG CHILD CASUALTIES IN TENSE TEL AVIV AREA

JERUSALEM, March 3.—(AP)—Deaths by violence in Palestine mounted to 22 in three days with the shooting of a Jewish curfew violator in Tel Aviv today as the British army, maintained martial law over a third of the Holy Land's 700,000 Jews.

British officials reported that Isaac Poll, 30-year-old Jewish ex-serviceman, was shot and killed while bicycling in Tel Aviv when he failed to heed a soldier's order to halt.

Four-Year-Old Shot.

His death was the second traceable to control measures imposed to facilitate a hunt for Jewish underground fighters. Kettl Shalom, four-year-old Jewish, died in a hospital yesterday. Officials said he was hit in the back of the head and his mother was wounded in the leg by bullets fired at Kettl's father, leaving the house in violation of a curfew.

Martial law was in force for more than 250,000 Jews in Jerusalem's oldest and biggest Jewish district, the Mea Shearim section, and in a northern coastal-plains area measuring some 40 by 10 miles and embracing Tel Aviv, Ramat Gan, Tel Hashomer, Be'er-Sheva and other Jewish communities.

Some Curfew Lifted.

A curfew keeping residents to their homes was lifted at dawn today in the coastal section. In the Jerusalem martial-law area, housing some 65,000 Jews, inhabitants were allowed out for the first time since 7 p. m. Saturday.

A prior curfew suspension of the curfew became effective at 10 a. m.

U.N. SUB-COMMITTEE SIFTING EVIDENCE CHARGING ALBANIA

By JOHN A. PARRIS, JR.
LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., March 3.—(AP)—A three-man subcommittee of the United Nations security council began sifting evidence behind closed doors today to decide whether to charge Albania with committing "a crime against humanity" by sowing mines in Corfu channel.

Representatives of Poland, Australia and Colombia took up their task. Great Britain prepared to intensify her battle to force a decision in the council on the long-hanging mine-laying complaint against Albania.

Dr. Alexander Cadogan, British ambassador to the council, was delegated to the sub-committee to elaborate and clarify London's complaint. British sources said he would attempt to block any move to detain the case to the International Court of Justice without a prior UN action against Albania.

Hysni Kapo, Albanian representative, also is expected to appear before the sub-committee.

Some delegates said they expected a controversy to develop over whether the sub-committee should make specific recommendations to the council in its report, due March 10.

There was a possibility that Poland would urge a summary of evidence without findings. This would clear the path for introduction of a resolution to refer the case to the International Court of Justice.

Poland, one of the members of the sub-committee, already has served notice of intent to offer a resolution on the council floor that the case be referred to the Hague court. Colombia also has shown interest in the court plan.

The British do not oppose eventual reference of the case to the court for a legal opinion, but demand that the council take some

URGE MARSHALL POLICY TALK

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP)—Senator Tobey (R-Neb.) proposed today that Secretary of State Marshall tell congress behind closed doors exactly how the situation stands in the troubled Mediterranean and the Near East before the lawmakers are called upon to vote for bigger cash outlays abroad.

Tobey, who heads the senate banking committee charged with passing on foreign loans, told a reporter he thinks the crisis presented by possible withdrawal of British military and economic aid from Greece can be met only by an "informed congress."

Severe Congress Test.

"I think Marshall ought to come before congress in an executive (secret) session and tell us the actual situation in all of its grave aspects," the New Hampshire senator said. "This will be a severe

NEGRO SCHOOL BILL APPROVED; DEBATE RACING, OPEN SHOP

AUSTIN, Texas, March 3.—(AP)—The house today balked at final passage of the so-called "open shop" bill while the senate finally passed and sent to the governor legislation setting up a system of higher education for negroes.

The House beat down several amendments to the bill by Rep. Marshall O. Bell of San Antonio under which no person would be denied employment because of membership or non-membership in a union.

Then it voted 73 to 53 to shut off debate, and 98 to 48 in favor of passing the bill on second reading.

New Bill Falls.

Bell then moved to set aside the rule which requires that a bill be read on three separate days before it obtains final passage, and failed to obtain suspension by a 90 to 46 vote. This would have required the bill be read a third time.

Rep. Roger C. Evans of Denison told the house the bill would "abolish collective bargaining." He said the bill was unconstitutional.

Rep. Joe M. Kilgore of McAllen, speaking for the bill, said it "simply prohibits an employer from signing a contract which says a man has to be a union member."

Favorable Situation Seen.

The house action in refusing final passage leaves the measure in a favorable position for consideration later this week.

The house then voted to take up, out of its regular order of business, a bill by Rep. George O. Nicks of Corsicana, which advocates a conciliation measure designed to bring peace between labor and management.

The house continued in session while the senate adjourned until tomorrow.

Negro Schools Voted.

On the negro education bill, the senate vote was 73 to 2 concurring in amendments attached by the house. The bill, which would appropriate more than $3,000,000 for a state university for negroes at Houston, and interim emergency courses at Austin and Prairie View College for negroes.

Dr. H. D. Doherty, Port-South, assumed the preaching Sunday evening. Tommy Dixon, Baylor University, is in charge of the singing. A choir of young people is being conducted this week. Miss Taylor is organist for the revival.

In the fourth day of his sermon, the pastor referred to recent events that have emphasized what is wrong with the youth, with the attendant suggestions for a remedy from various quarters.

He spoke of the world that the youth in question had nothing to do with creating and asked what kind of city, community and world the youngsters meet. He termed America as lawless, although the statutes and the constitution in the world. He spoke of the state and federal legislative branches turning out laws every day.

More of Everything.

"America has more laws, more gold and more crime than any nation," the minister asserted, and then further explained the great natural resources found in this nation—in which no man need go hungry—yet hungry people are stealing to eat.

AUSTIN, Texas, March 3.—(AP)—Opponents of the bill which would legalize pari-mutuel betting at Texas horse race tracks met with defeat today when the house voted down an attempt to send the bill back to committee.

The vote was 72-64 against Rep. Jim Wright's motion to recommit the bill to the house committee on livestock and stock raising. Last week the state affairs committee unanimously approved the measure.

Wright said that he had heard from "a number of clergymen who want to testify on the broken homes and human wreckage" caused by legalized gambling on horse racing.

His statement that ample notification had not been given to opponents of the measure was contradicted by Rep. John Bell of Corsicana, which he sponsored. Bell said the public hearing held on the bill last week had been given all the notice that is required by law and that "not a single solitary soul was there to state opposition to the bill."

Under the bill, the state would get five percent of all money bet, plus ten percent of admission tickets plus fees from licensees.

The ordinance provided that March 24 was the last day for candidates to file, with absentee voting starting on March 26.

The election muddle was brought out in the open by views of some that the deadline for filing was midnight Saturday, and that the same date was the final one on which the commission could order the city election.

March 1 Deadline.

Other city officials, particularly Wichita Falls and Dallas, adopted the March 1 deadline, following the general election laws which provide a 30-day span between calling of and actual date of an election.

It was said that it has been held that local ordinances do not take precedence over the state election laws, and that municipalities must conform.

A sudden appearance of the question apparently tossed the city's already rather muddled balloting situation into further chaos.

Candidates who have not filed for places on the ballot in the regular election include Rufus D. Shell for mayor and Rufus D. Shell for commissioner. J. D. Davant, Jr., the other candidate for city commissioner, filed before Saturday.

A special election to be held at the same time of the regular one, Travis Fullwood has not filed, and Oscar S. Burns has filed.

Each of the candidates in the city attorney's race, Joe E. Anderson and Joe Jacobs, as well as Miss Kate Dunn, for tax assessor and collector, filed before last Saturday.

The commission Tuesday will decide if errors have been made, and if so, what legal steps must be taken to rectify them.

SEATING OF SOLON FROM NONEXISTENT DISTRICT ILLEGAL

AUSTIN, March 3.—(AP)—Phil A. Schraub of Corpus Christi, claimant to a seat in the house of representatives from a non-existent district, may not be legally recognized as a representative, Attorney General Price Daniel held today.

In his opinion, Daniel noted that if Schraub were seated, he would bring the number of representatives from the state to 29, which would violate the constitution by increasing the number of representatives from the state.

The constitution provides that the legislature reapportion the state's legislative districts after every federal census, and it has not been done since 1921.

The total for Navarro county in 1947 is $11,017.

DEADLINE MAY HAVE PASSED FOR CALLING APRIL CITY ELECTION

City officials were confronted Monday with a twist in election procedure that indicated officials had erred in calling the city balloting 30 days prior to April 1 and if avowed candidates had erred in not officially filing for vacant posts prior to last Saturday.

Mayor John C. Calhoun asked City Attorney Doyle Forrester for a written opinion on whether the election should have been ordered by last Saturday, and whether last Saturday was the deadline date for filing.

Forrester said he was preparing the opinion Monday and would have it ready for the commission at its meeting at 2 p. m. Tuesday.

City Ordinance Cited.

Officials were working under the presumption that the city ordinance setting deadline dates still applied insofar as the April 1 balloting was concerned.

"Nobody has told us otherwise," Mayor Calhoun said.

The ordinance provided that March 24 was the last day for candidates to file, with absentee voting starting on March 26.

The election muddle was brought out in the open by views of some that the deadline for filing was midnight Saturday, and that the same date was the final one on which the commission could order the city election.

High Court Again Delays Ruling On Lewis Case Appeal

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP)—The Supreme Court today again delayed a ruling upon the government's contempt case against John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers.

The next opinion day of the court is Monday, March 10. The court could hand down its decision then or at any later date.

Expectancy of a decision today had been heightened by the two-week recess preceding the opinion session, allowing time for the preparation of rulings.

Senate Approves 4, Half Billion Budget Chop, Debt Slash

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP)—The senate approved today and sent back to the house a resolution pledging a $4,500,000,000 cut in President Truman's budget and promising to use $2,600,000,000 of any savings to reduce the national debt.

The vote was 64 to 20.

The senate's action came after it had adopted on a voice vote an amendment by Senator Wherry (R-Neb.) under which any receipts from the sales of surplus war property would be applied on the debt.

The measure now goes to the house, which voted previously to attempt to trim $6,000,000,000 off the $37,500,000,000 Mr. Truman asked to operate the government in the year beginning next July 1.

The house fixed no specific figure for debt payment. Neither did it specify that surplus receipts should be used in the manner the senate set out. All of these differences are expected to go to a senate-house committee for compromise.

TEN POINTS LISTED WHICH MAY GO INTO NEW LABOR MEASURE

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP)—Chairman Hartley (R-N.J.), today ticked off ten points on which labor committee may put into a new labor bill, including bans on the closed shop and on union membership for foremen and some columnists and radio commentators.

They are intended to reduce or eliminate such things as jurisdictional strikes, secondary boycotts, and strikes ordered by only a small percentage of a union's membership.

The house chairman's list of things likely to go into his committee's bill is based on suggestions the group has received in weeks of hearings and on reactions of committee members to them.

Hartley counted off these:

1—Make a strike illegal unless a majority of all the members of a union vote for it by secret ballot.

2—Outlaw the closed shop, under which management can hire only union help.

3—Bar secondary boycotts. A union in an argument with a company sometimes applies pressure

16 TEXANS KILLED IN WEEKEND

By The Associated Press

Violent death came to 16 persons in Texas during the week end. Two died of burns, five were killed in automobile accidents, five died of gunshot wounds, one succumbed to excitement at a high school basketball game, one drowned, one was killed in an explosion at a gas well, and one was killed when struck by a train.

Elwood Lucas, 24, died in a Midland hospital yesterday (Sunday) of burns received in an unsuccessful attempt to save Frances Dismore, a visitor in the home, had escaped from the house, but ran back in an effort to find the little girl after he discovered his sister, Beverly, had been unable to bring the child to safety.

Luther Edward Harris, 26, of Mineral Wells drowned in Possum Kingdom lake Saturday night and his brother, Clayton, was hospitalized for shock following a boat accident.

Clayton Harris said that the motor on the boat had stopped and in starting was thrown overboard. Later the boat overturned and the two died themselves to it. Clayton said he attempted to swim ashore in the cold, rough water but was unable to make it. Leon Stove, game warden, and other rescued Clayton about five hours later.

Three men were killed yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a moving railroad tank car at the New Decker crossing, four miles west of Grimes Creek.

Dead were Thomas John Rehak, Jr., 21, of Busch Terrace, Baytown; a former football player at Robert E.

Lilienthal Hushed On Question About Future Atom Plans

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP)—In the interest of national security, David E. Lilienthal was instructed today not to answer questions concerning further research into atomic energy development by the University of Chicago and other educational institutions.

Chairman Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) of the senate atomic energy committee issued the instructions to the former TVA head, who is up for confirmation as chairman of the atomic energy commission.

Senator McKellar, (D-Tenn.) who is opposing Lilienthal's confirmation, asked how much money the University of Chicago was going to receive under a contract with the atomic energy commission, and how much of the "secret."

Before he could answer, Hickenlooper broke in to caution Lilienthal against divulging anything which might endanger "or even affect" national security.

Lilienthal replied that it would not be dangerous to say that some 25 midwestern universities, including the University of Chicago, have organized an association to further atomic research, and that the Chicago institution had been acting as the contracting agency.

"We need a deeper consecration of Christians—a closer walk with God and those who don't know him, need to know Jesus," the pastor said in conclusion.

"Just A Cold"

By W. F. BROWN

Of Johnson's Pharmacy

Many people suffering from "just a cold" insist upon going to work as usual, thereby spreading cold germs among their fellow workers, in addition to adding an extra hazard to their own health.

There is no such thing as "just a cold." Every cold, however slight, is serious. That extra exposure, that extra fatigue, may be just the straw that will change a cold into pneumonia.

INCOME TAX ABCs for 1947

WHAT'S DEDUCTIBLE?

A. TAXES: State income, some property, auto license, state gasoline tax in about 40 states, some federal taxes incurred in carrying on a business.

B. INTEREST PAYMENTS: On personal loans, home mortgage, installment purchases.

C. CONTRIBUTIONS: To non-profit, charitable, religious, education or scientific groups. (Political contributions are not included.)

TAX DEDUCTIONS MAY SAVE MONEY; WATCH THEM ON RETURNS

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(P)—Watch your deductions in filing your 1946 income tax return. They may save you money.

A deduction is the amount of money for personal or business expenses you can deduct from your total income before it is taxable. You can deduct many expenses. Some kinds of income, being tax-exempt, don't have to be reported at all.

The size of the deductions will decide for many people the kind of tax return they use.

Long Form Explained

If your income was $5,000 or over, you have no choice about forms. You must file on the 1040 long-form. When you use the long-form:

1. You can take the standard $500 deduction allowed everyone, without itemizing or accounting for any of it. Just take $500, provided your income was $5,000 or over.

2. Or, if your deductions were actually more than $500, you can claim them in full but, in that case, you must itemize every penny.

Unemployment compensation:

life insurance paid because of the death of the insured; social security benefits; mustering-out pay; monthly allowances to the families of servicemen; sickness and injury benefits received through accident or health insurance or under workman's compensation laws; inheritance or bequests of money or property, although the income from them is taxable. (Gifts to relatives or other individuals can't be deducted by the person making the gift.)

Many Expenses Deductible

Here are deductive expenses: Charitable contributions (the total of them can't exceed 15 percent of income and can't be made to individuals) to charitable, religious, scientific, fraternal and veterans organizations, and non-profit educational institutions.

Here are other deductible expenses: Interest paid on personal debts, such as bank loans and mortgages; state income and personal property and real estate taxes except those taxes—like paving assessments—which tend to increase the value of your property.

Some Not Deductible

Unless paid for business purpose, you can't deduct the following federal taxes: On admissions to theatres and sporting events, club dues, telephone and telegraph services; and transportation, such as railroad and bus fares.

You can deduct for medical, hospital and dental expenses to this extent: up to 5 percent of your income they're not deductible. After that they are—but—

They're limited to $1,250 if you file a return for yourself alone, or $2,500 if you claim more than one exemption. Example: Your income was $6,000. Five percent of that is $300. But your medical expenses were $500. Subtract the $300 from the $500. That leaves you $200 to deduct from your income as medical expenses.

He also urged prominent display of the Red Cross flag, and prominent display of the regular Red Cross pinards.

Corsicana Boy Scouts have been delivering the window display equipment, but more is available at headquarters, Cruse said.

Several firms will devote elaborate displays to assist in the drive, Cruse said.

"The work has gone on despite the termination of war," Caraway said. "The importance of the efforts the organization puts forth cannot be taken lightly."

action on this specific complaint.

The London government seeks an apology and compensation from Albania for damages to two destroyers and the deaths of 44 seamen in Corfu channel last Oct. 22 when the British vessel struck mines.

Albania charged before the council that the British ships had invaded Albanian territorial waters and therefore the Tirana government was not responsible for what happened.

Cotton Drop Seen.

STATE COLLEGE, Miss.—(P)—The price of cotton is sure to go down to 12c or 10 cents within the next three years and Mississippi must be ready with a good substitute, Publisher George McLean of the Tupelo, Miss., Journal told the Starkville Rotary Club. Cotton is vulnerable, he said, because of the manufacture of synthetics and because of increased farm mechanization.

Williams is the son of Mrs. Lucille White. Still's parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Still.

TRUMAN

Truman came in seven hours from the cold and snow of Kansas City into the sunny warmth and sunshine of Mexico.

At the airport he was met by a large crowd of people. The airport was transformed for the visit. A great platform flanked by high columns was erected for the unprecedented official session of the consultative council which made President Truman a "guest of honor" of the city. Governor Cass Aleman presented the president with an inscribed gold medal and a parchment.

The "Sacred Cow" circled the field for five minutes before landing. Then it taxied toward the buildings and stopped before the platform and the balcony where the receiving party was assembled.

Truman was the first man out of his plane. He was met near the bottom of the steps by U. S. Ambassador Walter Thurston. They stood talking a few minutes while President Aleman and Foreign Secretary Jaime Torres Pineda, a head of the Mexican party, stood 20 feet away for photographers to get the scene of the meeting.

An artillery fired a 21-gun salute. The two presidents advanced and shook hands. Then there was a round of introductions among the several officials and the U. S. embassy staff.

The two presidents met at 10:06 a. m. and six minutes later, introductions concluded, they advanced to the platform for the presentation of the medal.

President Truman, replying to President Aleman's welcome and the presentation of the medal, addressed himself to both of them. "I deeply appreciate the cordial welcome," he said "to the ancient and noble City of Mexico."

He spoke of the growing familiarity with Mexico through the friendship of the United States and of the "full understanding" between the two peoples.

"We are the inheritors of a great civilization," he said. "It is the task of the Democracies of America to nurture their political and intellectual heritage until Democracy has achieved its full fruition in world peace, justice and brotherhood."

As Truman finished, the military band began the two National Anthems, everyone standing at attention.

When the music ceased, the two presidents, followed by their parties left the field and started the drive to the U. S. embassy where Truman will remain.

The newly finished boulevard to the main highway was lined on both sides by troops at attention. Back of them the crowds were about six feet deep. People cheered and Truman smiled and waved his hand repeatedly.

After a mile along this boulevard, the road to the city goes on the "Puebla-Mexico Highway." Along it were detachments of troops and police. Inside the city, police in great numbers guarded the route and Mexican secret service men were in each house and on roofs.

The president rode in Truman's car, brought here by air. The U. S. President was on Aleman's right.

The arrival of President Truman was broadcast throughout Mexico.

BUDGET

The senate's $4,500,000,000 cutting pledge was regarded as a victory for the armed forces, which apparently stood to lose about $2,250,000,000 in proposed appropriations if the house figure prevailed.

Under the debt payment pledge made by the senate, there apparently still was room according to Senator Taft (R-Ohio) for a reduction in personal income taxes.

be authorized to hire from funds already appropriated—the necessary civilian help to offset any shortage of enlisted men if strength falls below the required levels.

Explosion March 31.

The White House dispatched the message to Capitol Hill while the president himself was flying to Mexico City for a three-day good will visit.

Last spring, congress extended the draft law until March 31 of this year and raised pay scales of enlisted men. The idea then was to see whether the armed services could get all the men they needed as volunteers.

The White House decision that the law need not be extended is a short term one so far as general future military manpower policy is concerned.

Universal Training Urged.

President Truman has repeatedly said that he wants some form of universal training law enacted eventually. He now has a commission of educators and public leaders studying the question of what system would be best for this country. This group is expected to report in two or three months and Mr. Truman has recommended then for a training law.

In today's message, Mr. Truman told congress that "the only way" of keeping the armed forces at the necessary strength for the fiscal year 1948, which ends June 30, 1948, is through selective service.

Extension Not Sought.

"I have decided, however, after most careful consideration and consultation with the secretary of war and the earnest desire of placing our army and navy on an entirely volunteer basis at the earliest possible moment, that I should not recommend an extension of the act at this time."

Mr. Truman went on to say that the army estimates that it can count with "fair certainty" on an average of 20,000 enlistments a month, in the coming fiscal year.

their own licensing board. They want to state as they are, under control of the state board of medical examiners.

Chiropractors and naturopaths have proposed legislation setting up their own boards, and the medical doctors are seeking to tighten educational requirements for practitioners of the healing arts.

As the 50th legislature went into its eighth week, it had before a warning that if all pending appropriations bills and some yet to come are enacted, the general revenue fund will be about $100,000,000 in the hands by Sept. 1, 1948. It now has a surplus of more than $35,000,000.

This warning came from Sen. Jim Taylor of Kerens, chairman of the key senate finance committee, who said his only motive was to "lay out the facts" for the legislature's information.

TEXAS TRIP

while President, as did William H. Taft.

Each time the nation's titular head came to Texas, the folks out did themselves. Dallas, Waco, San Antonio and several border points have decked themselves in Sunday best for the occasion.

The late Franklin D. Roosevelt holds the record for number of trips. He popped into political limelight when he nominated Al Smith for President at the National Democratic convention in Houston in 1928. That was the year traditionally Democratic Texas went for the Republican candidate, Herbert Hoover.

The Texas Centennial in 1936 brought him back as President and he delivered an address at Dallas. In 1938, he put into Port Aransas on a fishing trip. He did not touch land, however, but fished Texas waters as far as Port Isabel.

In the middle of World War II, in 1943, Roosevelt, and then President of Mexico, Manuel Avila Camacho, met at Monterrey, Mexico. On the return trip, Camacho accompanied him through Brownsville and up to Corpus Christi. But this wartime visit was a very quiet affair.

A reunion with his rough riders in San Antonio in 1905 brought President Theodore Roosevelt to Texas.

The first Roosevelt came back again in 1911 as a private citizen on a vacation.

Taft was honored at a whopping $25 per plate dinner in Dallas in 1909. He was on his way back to Washington from Juarez, Mexico, where he had met and talked with Mexico's president, General Diaz, on the international bridge.

Attends Memphis Meeting

Lewis David, member of the Texas State Production and Marketing Administration, left Sunday for Memphis, Tenn., for the national production and marketing administration conference.

David, a large farm operator, is one of the five members of the state committee. He was appointed only a few weeks ago. This administration has to do with the governmental purchase of commodities in large quantities when the necessity arises to keep the prices of farm commodities at parity levels.

National 4-H Club Week Is Observed

National 4-H Club Week, which is being observed from March 3 to 9, is a time when the theme "Working Together for a Better Home and World Community" is observed.

Clubs everywhere are laying plans for special activities to highlight their work and to emphasize the 1947 theme. Every boy and girl in rural communities is to be given an opportunity to become a member and every adult the chance to learn of the goals and activities of the local clubs.

President Truman, in issuing a message to all 4-H club members, said:

"We are proud of your 4-H Clubs, which are spreading across our great nation. They constitute an outstanding body of youth aiming to attain worthwhile goals in life. 4-H clubs have become a significant influence in developing the cultural, social and recreational, as well as the practical aspects of modern rural life. As a character-building influence they are unsurpassed."

Given Jail Sentences.

Theft of a truck tire and an undisclosed amount of potatoes brought 30-day jail sentences to two Navarro county men, who were arrested today by Sheriff David Sastles.

The two men, James Alton Honea and Ernest E. Dozier, were charged with the theft of a truck tire and potatoes from a truck tire driven by W. C. Webb, Belmer, Texas, on the night of Feb. 28, Sheriff Sastles stated.

Funds for Lunch Rooms.

The continued operation of lunch rooms in Navarro county schools through the month of March has been assured by the re-appointment of federal funds for that purpose. J. C. Watson, county school superintendent, stated Friday.

The lunch rooms are at present financed through joint federal and state appropriations, but eventually federal aid for this purpose will be discontinued, Watson said.

Notice of appeal by the City of Corsicana and the Corsicana Independent school district was made by City Attorney Doyle Pevehouse. Judge McDonald heard the case Wednesday and was scheduled to hear further delinquent tax suits Friday.

SHORT TAX FORM MAY BE USED IF INCOME IS $5,000 OR LESS

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of 12 stories explaining who must do what about his income tax return.)

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—You can file your 1946 income tax return on the 1040 short form if your income, from any source at all, was under $5,000. If it was $5,000 or over, you must use the 1040 long form.

Form 1040 is a 4-page form. It can be used two ways: As a short form or as a long form. The main difference is:

On the short form you don't figure your tax. It's already figured for you in a tax table on the back. You must figure it on the long form.

No Deductions Allowed

When you use the short form you don't list any deductions for things like mortgage interest, charitable contributions, and so on. You don't have to. Everyone using the short form automatically is allowed about 10 per cent deduction. This is taken care of in the tax table.

If your deductions actually were more than 10 per cent of income, don't use the short form. You'll lose money. Use the long form. With the long form you must itemize your deductible expenses but you can't deduct for all of them.

Combined Return Possible

Husband and wives with combined income under $5,000 can file separately or jointly on the short form. If their combined income is $5,000 or more, they must file separately on the short form or jointly on the long form.

Don't skip around the short form. Start at the top, answering the questions as you go down.

Most people will need only page 1. Some, with income from pensions or annuities, also will use the top of page 2.

Here's how to do it.

How to Fill Form

You, married, have two children. You had $4,500 income from salary and $300 from dividends. Your wife had no income.

You write your name, address, Social Security number, then you list as exemptions yourself, wife and two children, since they were dependent upon you.

(Each exemption you can claim knocks $500 off your total income before it becomes taxable.)

Where it says "your income" you write your own's and your wife's. List all your employers if you had more than one.

List Income Separately

Then, separately, list your $4,500 salary and $300 from dividends. Add the two. The total is $4,800. Turn to the tax table on page 4 to see what your tax is.

Because you're claiming four exemptions, look down the fourth column which shows that the tax on a man with four exemptions and $4,800 total income is 452. Write that on page 1, line 7.

But during the year the boss withheld from your $4,500 salary a tax of $395. (In 1946 full tax was supposed to be withheld from all salaries and wages up to $5,000.)

So you write $395—the tax withheld from you—alongside (A) under line 8, page 1.

Send In Payment

You look at line 7—the $452 in total tax—and at line 8—the $395 tax withheld. The difference—$57—is due to the tax on the $300 in dividends from which no tax was withheld in 1946.

So you write that $57—the difference between the tax you withheld and the full tax owed—line 9.

Then you sign the return, and turn it in to the collector of internal revenue by mail or in person.

Be sure, when you turn it in, that you also give the collector the $57 in tax still owed.

Note: If too much tax was withheld from you in 1946, you can find the collector owes you a refund—mark the amount owed, you on line 10.

In such a case, since you owe no money, you just file the return and the collector will refund to you the amount of money you've been over-taxed.

HOMES DESTROYED BY FIRE, LACK OF TEETH, "DEAD" BABY—ALL IN PROBLEMS SOLVED BY RED CROSS

By BOB CAMPBELL, Daily Sun Staff.

This is the story of eight families whose homes were liquidated by flames, an ex-soldier who just had to have some teeth, and a negro whose baby was "dead."

The stories of the fires, the teeth, the "dead" baby are not accurately reflected in the four-column column which shows that the Red Cross solved the problems of the home service department of the Navarro County Red Cross chapter.

The statistical report of Mrs. A. E. Haslam, home service chairman, shows that even colder than the figures released, the report shows that during October, November and December of 1946 and January of 1947, 1150 persons had their needs studied by the home service section; that during the same period the local chapter gave $2,736.38 in financial aid to applicants. The latter figure does not include $273.83 given to the eight families whose silt belongings perished in fires.

Fire Creates Havoc. Misfortune always finds its first speed. There is nothing, not even death, that within a few minutes can create such havoc, so isolate a family, Red Cross workers say.

Take the eight families. They had homes, such as they were. They had clothes and food and a little of this and a little of that. But whatever they had, how little or how much, how new or how shabby, it was theirs. The fires took care of those things.

One hour they were getting along all right; the next, they were forced to rap at the door marked "Help."

The Red Cross studied the cases accurately but what is more important, with dispatch.

Miss Jessie Mae Hilliard, the home service secretary, and Miss Lillian Davidson, her case worker, are used to this sort of thing. They know all the questions and practically all of the answers.

Needed Assistance. The people made homeless by fire needed assistance. They received it.

There is the matter of the teeth. This man, an ex-soldier with a smooth mouth, came to the Red Cross with a howl of pain. He had lost his teeth, and he had no money to get new ones.

At a rather advanced age he had been in the army just long enough to learn how and why to smile. When a dentist jerked out of his teeth, hoping thereby to make of him a better soldier. Then, having no teeth, the army decided he should be discharged. They sent him home, discharged and toothless.

The Red Cross took his case and launched an intensive written campaign. There followed two and a half years of correspondence to and from.

Bought Set Teeth. The Red Cross finally won. Almost. They won to the extent that the Veterans Administration finally sent the ex-soldier a set of teeth—through the mail and without his having to be discharged. The teeth were very large, so large, in fact that it was impossible to confine them within the man's oral cavity.

The Red Cross bought him a set.

The help for a deceased (on paper) baby.

This negro came to the Red Cross with a touching tale. It touched the heart and would have touched the till had it not been for the usual meticulous check of the case workers. The man came to the Corsicana office, asking aid in burying his little daughter, who had just left this life via the pneumonia route. There was no doubt but what the negro needed help. He had no money for burial expenses.

The Red Cross heard his story, assumed the responsibility of burying the baby.

They dispatched an ambulance for the body, even though the man warned, "them roads are powerful muddy." Half way to the purporting home the negro took leave of the ambulance.

In Theory Only. Death had visited his home only in theory. It had killed his hopes.

PLAIN AND FANCY GUNS—MOSTLY FANCY—IN FINE COLLECTION OF CORSICANA'S HOBBYIST O'DANIEL

By BOB CAMPBELL, Daily Sun Staff.

There are many accepted ways of becoming deceased. All of them presumably hurt somewhat, and practically none exists but what falls into a prosaic classification. If, however, one desires distinction in passing from this turbulent realm, Rube O'Daniel, Corsicana auctioneer, has the facilities for being unique even at paltry expense.

In his fine collection of 148 guns he has one that shoots square bullets.

Rare Type of Weapon

History, so far as can be ascertained, does not record anybody having died with a square bullet of a round hole in the heart department, but there once existed this type of weapon. O'Daniel doesn't have the bullet mould to go with it. But his priceless accumulation has a special little niche for the square-barrel affair. Once he heard a man on radio show tell of possessing a square bullet mould, and the man said the guns had long ago passed out of existence. O'Daniel didn't want to lose one of his own. But he had the gun at the time.

Let us presume that you really want to blow the pants off somebody, say an enemy. But you do not cherish the idea of just hauling out a pistol and getting it over with. You insist upon, say, adroitness. You want something that will make page one. So you see O'Daniel and borrow his shooting cane.

Shooting Cane

Few people are ever shot with walking canes. But O'Daniel, were he not a peaceful man, could shoot with one. This 30-caliber pistol cane was found in a Chicago pawnshop by the collector. It has a fine ivory handle and looks no more lethal than, say, one grandpa would back out of an enemy's hand. But it parts in the middle and reveals a barrel very long and cold looking. The trigger is a push-up affair, hidden in the handle.

The pistol is cocked automatically the minute the handle is inserted. It's a fine weapon for things other than walking. One could shoot himself in the foot.

Historic

O'Daniel is rather an old collector of old guns. His are historic rather than headline to coin a harmless word. For instance, he wouldn't give an inflated dime for one of the many guns that Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker used in their teamwork to reduce the population of Texas at every opportunity. But he would practically walk to Oklahoma to get one that "Pretty Boy" Floyd used.

There must be a distinction. The pistol he has is one that ever belonged to the Barrow-Parker gang," he said. "They're not my idea of good gun collecting contributors. But Floyd, he never killed any more people in his life than he thought of as 'Pretty Boy.' I would like to have one of his guns."

Valuable Collection

O'Daniel has spent his life collecting what he has—and he has a houseful. He won't accept one as a gift, preferring to buy his own. His collection is valued far in the excess of the $25,000 for which it will be sold when Texas Sweater, former Henderson County sheriff and trick shot artist, takes it on the road with a carnival.

It is not the biggest gun collection in the United States, but it is rated among the top ones as far as odd makes are concerned.

There is the matter of "hoss pistols." Everybody has heard of "hoss pistols," but few have ever seen one. They are not called that because they are as big as horses. O'Daniel theorizes. He says they were too big for the scabbard, so had to be tied on the saddle. Hence the 50 calibre cannot get up in the "hoss" world. O'Daniel has seen three of them, has one.

Saddle Rifle

Let us look at the fine Spencer saddle rifle and visualize white buffalo hunting. It is said that only seven white buffaloes were ever killed and reported in the United States. One was near Childress, where Indians, "seeing the reptiling rifle for the first time, could not fathom the chain-bang-bang and departed. O'Daniel's repeater came from the scene of the buffalo hunt, excavated from its resting place.

Old timers, who usually carried death around in their vest pockets, found the one-barrel pistol not enough sometimes, usually too late. O'Daniel has the result of their inventive geniuses. He has a three-barrel Marston, a four-barrel O. Sharps and Co., a six-barrel holster type, the make of which is unknown.

Silver Pistol

He has a beautiful silver pistol with a pearl handle that fits snugly in the hand. It was the first safety-type pistol, equipped with a double hammer. There also is a target gun, a 24-calibre affair that was O'Daniel's favorite, made especially for men who liked to lurk in upstairs windows and wait for some of the former friends to stroll by on the way to heaven. It has an extraordinarily long barrel, made to furnish more range with less noise.

He rates as his most valuable single piece, a Colt original cap and ball converted into a six-shooter. It bears a serial number 1489, and is held to be between 160 and 175 years old. Sweeten has fired it, and says it is a "sweet piece." It was fired long before—

FROST GIRLS WIN FIRST HONORS BY DOWNING LASSIES

CHAMPION COMBINATIONS DRAW BYES IN FIRST ROUND OF PLAY

The State Home Laddies, runners-up in the 36-B district basketball race, won the boys' division of the Frost invitation tournament Saturday when they trounced the Itasca five in the finals, 26-14.

The Frost girls left no doubt as to their prowess in this area, defeating the State Home Lassies 24-6 to take the girls' tourney title.

The Lads drew a bye in the first round, then defeated Frost 31-16 to put themselves in the finals opposite the Itasca crew. Lawrence and Carrington, with 11 points apiece, sparked the Lads to their tournament win in the last game.

The Frost girls likewise won their first round game via the bye method, then turned back the Itasca girls to advance to the finals. The Frost girls, led by Moore with 13 points, was too much for the Lassies in the final game. The Frost girls clearly proved their right to the title of girls' team in the 36-B district.

MIRACLE DRUG TO EASE MISERY OF HAY FEVER AT LAST FOUND; HELPFUL FOR MOST ALLERGIES

By GROVER HEIMAN, Daily Sun Staff.

Science has advanced another step, a step welcomed wholeheartedly by an estimated 6,000 people in Navarro county who are afflicted with hay fever or allergies.

Benadryl is the step, a man-made miracle, a drug now in use by local physicians in the treatment of the maddening sniffles, sneezing, watering of the eyes, and rashes.

Last fall and early winter, druggists shuddered at the mention of the word because of the small supply. Hay fever sufferers were not content to wait on clinical trial and clutched frantically for the drug that would ease their misery.

First Supply Short

The overbalance of supply and demand was touched off by newspaper and magazine articles and radio commentators. Overnight the drug became a household word and people with allergies swarmed to physicians and stormed angrily at druggists.

If the medical and pharmaceutical professions had not the high standards of ethical authority, it would have resulted in one of the most terrific black markets in history. The black market did not exist, but the makers of the drug simply had to shelve other projects and turn to making Benadryl.

It's often been said that the man who finds a cure for hay fever will be the richest man in the world. When it is considered that statistics show from 10-15 per cent of the population suffers from allergies, then the statement is not too bold. From 15 to 22 million Americans are afflicted.

Drug Not Cure

Benadryl does not cure, it alleviates and eases. Clinicians say it shows that hay fever discomfort is halted in 85 per cent of the cases, hay fever from non-pollen factors in 75 per cent of cases, and 50 per cent of the allergic asthma cases.

Benadryl is considered a universal drug in the field of allergies because it attacks at the root of all allergies—histamine.

Histamine is an elusive substance of the blood, a powerful, irritating, perhaps useful, and certainly the least understood chemical in the blood. Its use in the body is not known definitely, but scientists are still delving into the mystery.

One Thing Known

One thing is known about histamine—it is a dominant factor in the blood, much like an atomic bomb, with pollen, feathers, eggs, or what, suddenly providing a chain reaction that violently attacks the nose, skin, lungs, head, or wherever the allergy strikes.

In the allergic individual, the histamine gets out of hand and becomes an irritant. It is believed that the reaction causes histamine to make leaks in capillaries and the resulting fluid escapes to produce congestion of the nose and other parts of the body.

The study of histamine led to the search for an antihistamine substance, a counter agent that would bring the balance back to normal. The result was Beta Dimethylaminomethyl Benzydriyl Ethyl Hydrochloride, which, in the benefit of all, has been shortened to Benadryl.

Does Not Injure

This miracle drug does not affect the production of histamine in the body, does no injury to the tissues of the body. It enters the body and sets up defensive breastworks in the individual cell, keeping histamine out so there can not be an irritant. This condition continues as long as the drug is used. When the hay fever season is over, Benadryl treatments stop and the individual is ready to return to normal. In the case of food allergies, the drug will give the allergic a quicker opportunity to determine the cause.

As in the case of many new drugs, there are side effects, but these are not serious. Benadryl of the effects is sleepiness, which in the case of some tortured victims of asthma and hay fever, is actually a blessing.

Some Bad Effects

Other effects noticed by the clinicians are dizziness, dryness of the mouth and nervousness, but these have been overcome by smaller doses. Black coffee helps those who become sleepy.

The drug is usually administered orally, but conclusive proof of the speedy action was shown by an injection in the blood stream. Complete freedom from running nose and nasal congestion of a hay fever sufferer was obtained in 30 seconds.

The drug was discovered by Dr. George Rievesch, 32-year-old chemist at the University of Cincinnati. In 1936 the drug was fully developed at the Parke, Davis Laboratory. By the time the hay fever season comes in the fall, there should be an adequate supply of the new drug.
